COOPER GOODEN HAS A BROKEN WRIST

Cooper Gooden fell on the ice at his home, on East First street, Tuesday and broke his right wrist, a clean, straight break of the bones. He came uptown Wednesday and is getting along all right. Last summer Mr. Gooden suffered a case of blood poisoning in his left hand that caused him constant trouble for about four months, and for a period of several weeks his life was despaired of. But he came out of the experience as good as new, and bids fair to do the same in his present dilemma.

Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Clark of Humes-ton, Ia., were guests over Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Yaley of the Yaley Mercantile company.

ENCONIUMS FROM LEIPZIG AND PARIS

Clarence I. Eddy, the great pipe organist who will appear at the First Christian church Friday night, has received the highest praise from the best critics of the age. Here are a few criticisms, the first from the Tageblatt, published at Leipzig, a widely quoted German newspaper:

"Mr. Eddy is a phenomenal virtuoso who controls his instrument with astonishing ease. His pedal technique can hardly be equalled; with the utmost repose and without the least bodily movement, Mr. Eddy plays pedal passages with such a degree of smoothness and legato that the effect is truly amazing. The artist's skill in drawing the stops while playing, without interrupting the performance was, to us Germans, a revelation."

"After a concert given by Mr. Eddy at the Paris exposition of 1889, Alexandre Guilmant, the most famous French organist, paid him the following tribute: 'Mr. Eddy's great virtuosity and his masterly interpretations elicited the warmest applause. We were astonished at the ease with which he was able to control the magnificent instrument of Savaille-Coll, knowing that he had barely a few hours in which to familiarize himself with all its resources. Mr. Eddy is a great artist, and he has won the esteem of French organists. For ourselves, we are happy to extend to him our sincerest congratulations.'"

"Following a recital given at the famous Saint Cecilia academy in Rome, Mr. Eddy was made an honorary member, and among the encomiums he received was the following expression from the great composer Sganabati: 'He is one of the greatest organists of the present epoch.'"

POP AS A TONIC

JURY DECIDED SKIDMORE MAN HAD GOOD EXCUSE.

SENTIMENT AGAINST LAW

Verdict of Acquittal in Sunday Selling Case at Skidmore Will Probably Be Appealed.

The jury in the case of the city of Skidmore against George H. Patterson, a restaurant man of that town, on a charge of selling a bottle of soda pop on Sunday, in conflict with the city ordinances, brought in a verdict Tuesday afternoon, after being out nearly an hour, for the defendant. The case attracted a great deal of attention from the citizens of Skidmore, and great interest was taken in it.

The trial was held in the office of Mayor Fullerton at Skidmore, and Mayor Fullerton being also city police judge, he sat in the case. A jury of six men was called to hear the case. Attorney George Robb Ellison represented the city of Skidmore and L. C. Cook represented Mr. Patterson.

Skidmore has adopted several "blue law" ordinances under the administration of the present mayor, George W. Fullerton, and nothing can be bought in that town on Sunday except the necessities of life. Even cigars, soda pop, ice cream and many other articles cannot be sold. A large majority of the citizens of the town are strongly against these ordinances, and the city council of that town takes the position that if it isn't the law, they don't want it enforced. So it is thought probable that an appeal will be taken so as to test the law.

The alleged offense which Patterson was charged with, and to which he pleaded guilty, was selling a bottle of lemon soda pop on Sunday, January 8. The state's witness testified that he bought the pop as a tonic, or for medical purposes.

The trial was attended by nearly 200 people of Skidmore, who filled every crack and crevice of Mayor Fullerton's office. When the jury brought in the verdict in favor of the defendant a general jollification and jubilee was the order among those who heard the trial.

NORMAL TEAM WON IN BASKET BALL GAME

Team.	Won.	Lost.	Pct.
High School	2	0	1.000
Normal	2	1	.666
Pirates	1	1	.500
Business College	0	3	.000

The Normal and the Business College completed their first round of the schedule Tuesday afternoon at the Normal gymnasium, in what was at times a very close and exciting game of basket ball. The Pirates and the High School will probably play next Friday, and with that game out of the way the season will be half over. If the Pirates win from the High School, and they stand an even chance of doing it, it will tie the High School, Normal and Pirates for first place. With only one more round of games the race cannot help but be close.

The interest in the games is growing, the teams are improving right along, and if the town people want to see some fast basket ball they should attend the games for the rest of the season.

Tuesday's line-up was:
Normal—Miller, Kinsella and Criss, forwards; Criss and Wood, centers; Gault and McIntock, guards.

Business College—Rhodes and Nixon, forwards; Lyle, center, Holmes and Schoonover, guards.

Baskets—Miller 6, Kinsella, Criss 4, Gault 3, Wood 2, Rhodes 5, Schoonover 3.

Free throws—Criss 9, Rhodes 9. Two points awarded Normals on a foul. Referee—Perrin.

Time of halves—Twenty minutes. Won by Normal, 43-25.

EXEMPTION ON THE FARM.

The following aphorisms appear in the January Farm Journal:

Do not try the patience of the good wife by giving her green wood to burn. Many a man wears himself out trying to keep up with his good intentions.

Whitewash your barn, but never undertake to whitewash a crooked politician.

You are better than you seem; better than you believe yourself to be. So don't give way to discouragement.

There are more people dying for the lack of a kind word, a pat on the back and a little encouragement than there are from disease.

Hot water on the grindstone will spoil it after a little so that it will have no grit. Use warm water, not hot, for taking the frost out of your stone.

What a lot of strength there is wasted chopping with dull axes! Spend a few minutes at the grindstone, and see how nicely the world will go after that.

Some folks make themselves so lame kicking about things that they tire themselves all out, and never make anything out of life. It doesn't pay.

The boys and girls get enough hard knocks out in the world without your being stern and harsh with them. Let your home be to them a shelter and a refuge from the storms of the world.

Gets pretty slippery around the house and barn sometimes. Get a barrel of sand, coal ashes or sawdust, and when such days come, scatter some on the icy spots. Easier to save bones than it is to mend them.

It helps the wagon maker to let the mud freeze to the wheels when you come in from a trip. You don't need to do it, though. By taking a little pains you can get most of the mud off while it is soft, and so save the wagon many years longer.

Oyster Supper.

There will be an oyster supper at the Mt. Ayr church on next Friday evening, January 20.

Uncle Sam waddles on, but sometimes slowly, in his tariff hobble skirt.

Just when President Taft was planning to save $18,000,000 for the government, congress passed a new $45,000,000 pension bill.

Hon James A. Reed was elected by the Missouri legislature Tuesday to represent Missouri in the United States Senate. That is one distinguished service the members have rendered the state if they do no more.

Senator Aldrich has become so thoroughly disgusted with the miserable record being made by his party in congress that he has left his seat in the senate and gone for a rest where in the murmurings of the sad sea waves he can forget if not forgive.

All legitimate merchants, whether going into business or going out of business, will be treated with the same fairness and consideration by The Democrat-Forum. Now is the time to advertise in the paper than reaches the people.

ADVERTISED GOODS PREFERRED.

"I buy advertised goods by preference," says G. H. Lorimer, editor of the Saturday Evening Post, "but I never write to the advertiser."

Millions of others do the same, and the advertiser has no idea how widely he has influenced the public save in the rising tide of his sales. Advertising has become such an essential of modern business that most people have come to regard it as the inevitable accompaniment of a successful enterprise.

TWO CONDITIONS.

The new senator from Iowa, "Lafe" Young, was a farmer's boy and has lately been expressing wonder that people should leave the farm for life in the cities. Agricultural conditions were not bad years ago, he says, and are much better now; the farmer's life is the noblest on earth, etc. At this point a farmer at Gilmore City rises to remark in the Des Moines Register and Leader:

"I read those identical old stock expressions in almanacs and copy books fifty years ago when a boy, and have been reading and hearing them ever since, but they have not yet succeeded in overpopulating the farms and never will. There are just two conditions that can change the ratio of population in favor of the farm. First, a greater financial return for the labor and money invested than other business offers. Second, social and living conditions which appeal to young men and women as more desirable than town or city life. The latter will come with the former."

This is about the truth of the matter. Sentiment is not going to turn the tide of population back to the farm.

ROBBED CATARRH.

Steals Energy and Will Power From Its Victims.

Catarrh robs its victims of energy—some physicians say of will power. That may be the reason why thousands of catarrh sufferers haven't ambition enough to accept this fair and square offer by the Orear-Henry Drug company, which they make without any whys and wherefores or red tape of any kind.

The Orear-Henry Drug company says: "We guarantee Hyomei to cure catarrh, acute or chronic, or money back," and that offer is open to every reader of The Democrat-Forum.

Hyomei (pronounce it High-o-me) is the purest Australian Eucalyptus combined with Thymol and other germ killing antiseptics.

Pour a few drops into the small vest pocket Hyomei inhaler and breathe it into the lungs over the inflamed membrane infested with catarrh germs.

It is pleasant to use—it kills the germs, soothes the sore membrane, and cures catarrh; if it doesn't your money back.

A bottle of Hyomei costs 50 cents at druggists everywhere, and at the Orear-Henry Drug company. A complete outfit, which includes a bottle of Hyomei, a hard rubber inhaler and simple instructions for use costs $1.00.

Within the imperial preserves where the kaiser and his guests secured 500 deer in one day is the Schorfhaide, which each year toward the month of November becomes the meeting place of thousands of stags. This annual assemblage on the Schorfhaide has taken place every autumn for centuries past. Mention thereof has been found in documents more than a thousand years old. All sorts of theories have been put forward to account for it. Some natives say that the animals meet to decide matters affecting the leadership of their various clans. It seems hard to account otherwise for the attraction which brings stags and their mates from Galicia, on the Russian border; from the Liechtenstein game preserves south of Vienna and from the still larger estates in Hungary belonging to the Archduke Frederick, all the way to the Schorfhaide.—London Chronicle.

The Dialect Was There.

Ex-Governor Bob Taylor of Tennessee was once entertaining a northern guest who was rather skeptical about the prevailing dialect in stories of southern negroes. He thought it over drawn. To disprove the contention, Mr. Taylor laughingly made a wager with his guest that the northerner would be unable to interpret the language of the first negro they met. Accordingly they set out and presently came upon a black man basking indolently in the sun. Telling his friend to pay close heed, Mr. Taylor stepped up to the negro and demanded suddenly:

"Weh he?"

The negro blinked his eyes stolidly and then answered in a guttural voice: "Wah who?"—Everybody's.

Found the Saint's Day.

One Russian peasant sued another to recover the sum of 50 rubles, the debt or having faithfully promised to return the money on St. Henry's day. But, having failed to do so for a long time, the lender discovered that the Russian Orthodox church includes no such saint as St. Henry, and the judge before whom the case was tried was much puzzled as to what verdict he should give. Happily the idea occurred to him that, saint or no saint, All Saints' day included even the most doubtful, so he gave judgment that the 50 rubles should be returned next All Saints' day.

Very Obliging.

"Sir," tartly says the lady of uncertain age to the floorwalker, "is there any way of getting one of these salesmen to pay me some attention?" "Well," says the floorwalker confidentially, "I'll introduce you to any one of them you fancy, but I'll tell you now that all of them have their 'steadies.'"—Judge.

An Amiable Man.

"Why do you argue with your wife? Don't you know it doesn't do you a bit of good?" "Sure I do. But I ain't got such a mean disposition as to deprive her of the pleasure."—Cleveland Leader.

His Preference.

"Let me give you a pointer," the interlocutor said to the end man. "Don't give me a pointer," replied the end man; "give me a fox terrier."—Chicago Tribune.

WHY MEN SUCCEED.

A Factor in the Upward Climb Not Often Acknowledged.
(Cleveland Leader.)

"To my wife is due all my success." That is the confession freely made by the president of a big oil company last week, just after he had sold his holdings for $3,000,000 and given $200,000 to the University of Pittsburgh, where he was once a student.

How many successful men there are who know in their hearts that the same thing is true of themselves, yet how few confess it! Some readily make the acknowledgment to their wives, but it is not often that the man who has achieved place and power is willing to confess publicly. Pride, selfishness and the satisfaction of being regarded by their fellows as exceptional men hold them back. Others are so blinded by egotism that they do not realize the truth.

It is not hard for a man to perceive and admit the part his wife plays in his successes if she happens to possess a knowledge of business and is thoroughly informed in the affairs of the world. Her help is direct and so immediately effective that it cannot fail of recognition. But such cases are few. The average wife and mother has had neither the opportunity nor the inclination to become familiar with business, and she has no time to indulge in extensive study of such matters. Yet in a great number of cases if her husband is prosperous it is because of her efforts and her judgment.

When they were married probably they had little. Who was it that saved the money which enabled him to make his first investment or to engage in business for himself? His wife. She saw to it that the household expenses were kept down to the lowest limit compatible with health and comfort. She economized and she made him economize. More than all, she kept him free from vice and moral uncleanness, watched over his health, soothed away the bitterness of defeats and inspired in him the strength to persevere with a cheerful heart.

If that man has risen to be the head of a great corporation or has become a leading light in one of the professions, or if he has achieved the more important success of establishing a good American home, let him ask himself the question: What would he be if it had not been for his wife? If he is candid with himself, a good many unpleasant possibilities will present themselves to his mind. He will have to acknowledge that in all probability he would have "gone wrong."

Nobody knows this better than his wife. She does not care to boast about it; she is more than satisfied with the success and happiness that have come to both of them. But she would dearly appreciate it if he would occasionally make a little acknowledgement of what she has done for him. It would make a better, broader man of him and bring richer dividends from his little domestic corporation.

BALDHEAD CLUB.

One is Being Organized in a Western City.

Perhaps this report is a joke, but one thing is certain—a baldhead is no joke to the man who wears it.

A club of baldheads formed in every city in America would be a good thing if its members could be induced to parade hatless, through the main streets of the city.

The writer would suggest that some of the members carry banners with inscriptions of such a character as to warn those who still have hair that baldness is unnecessary; that in nearly every case it is the result of carelessness.

Banners inscribed as follows would be appropriate:

"We let the dandruff germ do it."

"The time to save the hair is when you have hair to save."

"When we were young, the dandruff germs worked every blessed minute. They dug our hair out by the roots, and now we aren't in it."

The best banner of all would be this: "We didn't use Parisian Sage."

The Koch pharmacy sells Parisian Sage for 50 cents a large bottle, so do live druggists everywhere. It is guaranteed to stop falling hair, itching scalp and to destroy dandruff germs and remove dandruff in two weeks, or money back.

Harold McDowell left for Hiawatha, Kan., Wednesday morning, where he will locate.

ORIGIN OF AN EXPRESSION.

"If This Court Knows Herself, and She Thinks She Do."

We frequently hear the expression, "If the court knows itself, and it thinks it does," but few persons are aware of the origin thereof.

The individual who gave birth to it was a Pike county Missourian named Blackburn, who flourished in the west many years ago. Blackburn ran away from home when he was a mere boy and sought his fortune in the west, where he grew to manhood as an Indian fighter, hunter, trapper and mountain guide. Although not an educated man, he was possessed of great acumen, to which was united a keen wit. When gold was discovered in California, Blackburn was one of the first to proceed thither. The miners as a sort of joke elected him alcalde, an office that combined the duties of mayor and justice of the peace. The first case coming before the new alcalde was that of a gambler who while drunk had ridden his horse over a young Mexican woman. She was seriously injured.

The trial took place in the largest cabin in the neighborhood. The gambler, who was rich, had retained able counsel to defend him. Alcaldé Blackburn called the young woman to the witness stand. She told a straightforward, honest story. When she had finished the alcalde peremptorily ended the trial. The attorney for the defendant protested vigorously, but the alcalde disposed of his protest thus: "If this court knows herself, and she thinks she do, I fine you $500 damages and assess upon you the cost of puttin' this young woman in good condition."

When asked what he meant by "good condition" the alcalde replied that the gambler must pay the doctor's bills and all other costs of the young woman's sickness.—Exchange.

MOZART'S UNTIMELY END.

Sad Finish of the Career of the Great Musical Genius.

Late hours, unwearying vigils, everlasting labor, the effects of chills, damp and exposure, in the hard life he led—a life alternating between brilliant passages and the most loathsome drudgery, between rosy anticipations of fortune and inevitable and eternal disappointments—had their effects on the vigorous constitution of Mozart. His lamp of life burnt out untimely. While still a young man—only thirty-five years old—he fell into ill health, the symptoms of which were a fitful, restless nervousness, a craving for inordinate excitement and a rapid decay of the physical stamina of his constitution.

Unfortunately for him, in the absence of any strong influence at home which might keep him in the path of duty, he was tempted to seek recreation abroad and fell into the company of a dissipated set of men, haunts of the theaters and taverns of Vienna, the chief spirit of whom was one Schikaneder, a low, coarse man of neither refinement nor talent. In company with this crew the glorious genius, whose critical state of health demanded the utmost care and attention from loving hands, flitted night after night from tavern to tavern in Vienna, deluding himself with vice under the idea that he was gathering the secret spirit of brotherhood for use in his opera, "The Magic Flute," on which he at that time was engaged.—Rowbotham's "Private Life of Great Composers."

Teeth In Their Stomachs.

Whatever it may be that the lobster and the crab, rapacious, never dainty, are eating they always see something else that they want and can't wait until they have masticated the first before attacking the second. But they don't give up the first, not by any manner of means. Nature, humoring this rapacious bent, has fitted the lobster and the crab with teeth in their stomachs, and they swallow their half masticated food and finish the chewing process with their stomachs while they seize and chew the other thing that has attracted them. Lobsters and crabs have no teeth in their mouths. They chew with their claws what they have time to and hand the unfinished job down to their stomachs to do the rest of the chewing.

Dollar Bills From All Over.

"That dollar silver certificate you have there has been gathered together from all over the world," said the bank cashier. "Part of the paper fiber is linen rag from the orient."

"The silk comes from Italy or China. The blue ink is made from German or Canadian cobalt. The black ink is made from Niagara Falls acetylene gas smoke, and most of the green ink is green color mixed in white zinc sulphide made in Germany."

"When the treasury seal is printed in red the color comes from Central America."—New York Sun.

No Apology Necessary.

"I congratulate you most heartily," said the nearsighted guest at the wedding, "on this happy—oh, I beg your pardon! I thought I was speaking to the bridegroom."

"That's all right," the other man replied. "I accept your congratulations. I am the father of the bride."—Chicago Tribune.

Very Lucky.

"I don't get what I deserve for my jokes," wailed the humorist. "You're lucky," sympathized his friend.—Toledo Blade.

THE GOLD WAS THERE.

But Mark Twain Missed It by Just One Pail of Water.

With Steve Gillis, a printer of whom he was fond, Mark Twain went up into Calaveras county to a cabin on Jackass hill, where Steve's brother Jim, a lovable, picturesque character (the "Truthful James" of Bret Harle), owned mining claims. Mark decided to spend his vacation in pocket mining and soon added that science to his store of knowledge. It was a halcyon, happy three months that he lingered there. One day with Jim Gillis he was following the specks of gold that led to a pocket somewhere up the hill when a chill, dreary rain set in. Jim was washing and Clemens was carrying water. The "color" became better and better as they ascended, and Gillis, possessed with the mining passion, would have gone on regardless of the rain. Clemens, however, protested and declared that each pail of water was his last. Finally he said in his deliberate, drawing fashion:

"Jim, I won't carry any more water. This work is too disagreeable. Let's go to the house and wait till it clears up."

Gillis had just taken out a pan of earth.

"Bring one more pail, Sam," he pleaded.

"I won't do it, Jim! Not a drop! Not if I knew there was a million dollars in that pan!"

They left the pan standing there and went over to Angel's camp, which was nearer than their own cabin. The rain kept on, and they sat around the grocery and barroom smoking and telling stories to pass the time.

Meanwhile the rain had washed away the top of the pan of earth left standing on the slope of Jackass hill and exposed a handful of nuggets—pure gold. Two strangers had come along and, observing it, had sat down to wait until the thirty day claim notice posted by Jim Gillis should expire. They did not mind the rain—not with that gold in sight—and the minute the thirty days were up they followed the lead a few paces farther and took out $20,000 in all. It was a good pocket. Mark Twain missed it by one pail of water.—Chicago Post.

INSURANCE MAPS.

Handy Guides For Underwriters In Fixing Premium Rates.

Many persons must have noticed when making application for fire insurance that it is the practice of the underwriter to examine certain maps before he will fix the rate of premium or accept a risk on the property offered. His lithographic surveys marked off in diagrams of red and yellow and other colors are always in evidence, sometimes bound securely in dozens of large volumes, on other occasions laid conveniently in piles of loose sheets for handy reference.

Few persons realize, however, that these maps contain all the information which the underwriter desires to know about the building he is asked to insure and that in most instances more matters are explained to him by a single glance than the applicant could make even though he be the owner of the property.

As a matter of fact the details set forth are most explicit. The map-maker has managed by colors, characters and signs to give a full description of the construction, equipment and occupation of the building, everything which over fifty years of this sort of surveying has proved to be of any possible interest to the insurance man. It is so complete, for instance, that an agent in New York city can readily form a good idea of the character of a risk situated in some town in Missouri or California, or vice versa, agents in towns in these western states can likewise tell the character of a risk in New York city.—Cassier's Magazine.

Poising on Nothing.

Away up in the air, far beyond the mountain tops, the great condors will hang poised as motionless as if perched on solid rock. True, their wings are outstretched, but even through glasses not the slightest motion is perceptible. They remain in this position for many minutes, sometimes for an hour, making a careful scrutiny of everything below them in their search for prey. Then, with a slight tilting of the wings, they flap slowly away, or, having found what they were seeking, dart like a bullet toward it. The eagle, hawk and other species have this same faculty of poising apparently on nothing.

Banked Rails.

In rounding a curve the tendency of the weight of a train is invariably to shift to the outside wheels. To counteract this tendency the outer rail of a curve is raised on a higher level than the inside, the elevation being in an exact proportion to the sharpness of the curve as determined by the principles of engineering. If both rails of a curved track were of exactly the same elevation a train would not dare round it at high speed.

The Great American Play, "Paid in Full."

In a leading magazine article on plays of the day a well known writer said:

"Paid in full is not forgotten overnight. A person leaves the theater after witnessing this wonderfully interesting play so vividly impressed by its irresistible sentimental appeal, its graphic picture of actual life, that the desire increases to see it again, and so again. It grows upon one. It is of the plays, few in number, that stand repetition, and therein is the more enjoyable."

This writer understood the enduring quality of "Paid in Full." It has proven itself the most popular drama ever produced in this country. A far greater number of persons have seen it than any other play in equal time, and striking evidence of its high place in public favor is furnished by its record of runs and engagements. In New York "Paid in Full" ran for two years without a break. It is the first play, not musical, ever to last through a summer on Broadway. Simultaneously in Chicago it ran for six months, where, as in New York, it attained the distinction of being the first play other than musical comedy to remain an entire summer. Thus in the two biggest cities of the country it achieved unprecedented records, while elsewhere it is unparalleled in respect to the interest it has created. In a number of cities "Paid in Full" returned as many as five and six times, and on each occasion the audience was greater than before, a remarkable illustration of the amazing hold it has on popular liking. Those who saw it went to see it again, and sent others who had not been there before. Therefore it will be certain of a rousing welcome when the United Play company presents it at the Empire theater with a really great cast, every member of which has won the plaudits of New York. This will be the chief dramatic event of the season which nobody should overlook.

Weak Kidneys

Weak Kidneys surely point to weak kidney nerves. The kidneys, like the heart, and the stomach, find their weakness, not in the organ itself, but in the nerves that control and guide and strengthen them. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is a medicine specifically prepared to reach these controlling nerves. To doctor the kidneys alone, is futile. It is a waste of time, and of money as well.

If your back aches or is weak, if the urine scalds, or is dark and strong, if you have symptoms of Bright's or other distressing or dangerous kidney disease, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative a month—Tablets or Liquid—and see what it can and will do for you. Druggists recommend and sell.

KILLING A MUTINY

Dramatic Incident In the Early History of Our Navy.

THE PLOT ON THE OLD ESSEX

Commodore Porter Got Wind of the Conspiracy Just as It Was Ripe, and His Prompt and Drastic Action Cowded the Crew and Saved the Ship.

There has never been a fleet mutiny or a squadron mutiny in the United States navy. The most notorious case in the naval history of this country was the conspiracy to mutiny on the brig of war Somers, which was discovered before it came to a head and resulted in the execution at sea of Philip Spencer, midshipman, son of the then secretary of war, and one petty officer and one seaman.

Another famous case was the one in which Commodore Porter acted with such vigor and promptitude that he completely crushed the rebellious spirit that had manifested itself and saved his ship.

When Commodore Porter was in command of the Essex in the early history of our navy there was an attempted mutiny on board. Here is an account of how it was suppressed which is vouched for as authentic: "While the Essex was lying at the Marquesas Islands, recruiting and refreshing her crew from one of the long and arduous cruises in the Pacific, Commodore Porter was informed through a servant of one of the officers that a mutiny had been planned and was on the eve of consummation; that it was the intention of the mutineers to rise upon the officers, take possession of the ship and after having remained as long as they found agreeable at the island to hoist the black flag and 'cruise on their own account.'"

"Having satisfied himself of the truth of the information, Commodore Porter ascended to the quarterdeck and ordered all the crew to be summoned aft. Waiting until the last man had come from below, he informed them that he understood that a mutiny was on foot and that he had summoned them for the purpose of inquiring into its truth. 'Those men who are in favor of standing by the ship and her officers,' said the commodore, 'will go over to the starboard side; those who are against them will remain where they are.' The crew to a man moved over to the starboard side. The ship was still at the grave. Fixing his eyes on them steadily and sternly for a few moments, the commodore said, 'Robert White, step out.' The man obeyed, standing pale and agitated, gulf stamped on every lineament of his countenance, in front of his comrades.

"The commodore looked at him a moment, then, seizing a cutless from the nearest rack, said in a suppressed voice, but in tones so deep that they rang like a knell upon the ears of the guilty among the crew: 'Villain! You are the ringleader of this mutiny! Jump overboard!' The man dropped on his knees, imploring for mercy, saying that he could not swim. 'Then drown, you scoundrel!' said the commodore, springing toward him to cut him down 'Overboard instantly!' And the man jumped over the side of the ship. He then turned to the trembling crew and addressed them with much feeling the tears standing upon his bronzed cheek as he spoke. He asked them what he had done that his ship should be disgraced by a mutiny. He asked whether he had ever dishonored the flag, whether he had ever treated them with other than kindness, whether they had ever been wanting for anything to their comfort that discipline and the rules of the service would allow and that it was in his power to give.

"At the close of his address he said: 'Men, before I came on deck I laid a train to the magazine, and I would have blown all on board into eternity before my ship should have been disgraced by a successful mutiny. I never would have survived the dishonor of my ship. Go to your duty.' The men were much affected by the commodore's address and immediately returned to their duty, showing every sign of contrition.

"But mark the sequel of this mutiny and let those who, in the calm security of their firesides, are so severe upon the course of conduct pursued by officers in such critical situations see how much innocent blood would have been saved if White had been cut down instantly or hanged at the yard arm. As he went overboard he succeeded in reaching a canoe floating at a little distance and paddled ashore. Some few months afterward, when Lieutenant Gamble of the marines was at the islands, in charge of one of the large prizes, short handed and in distress, this same White, at the head of a party of natives, attacked the ship, killed two of the officers and a number of men and it was with great difficulty that she was prevented from falling into their hands."—New York Post.

Nora Was Wise.

"Nora," censured the house butler "if you must break the missus' vases why don't you break the cheap ones instead of those expensive imported ones?"

"Oh, no," laughed Nora, with a gay flourish of her feather duster. "If I broke the cheap ones she would take them out of my wages."—Chicago News.

Be wiser than other people if you can, but do not tell them so.—Chesterfield.

CURED TO STAY CURED.

How a Maryville Citizen Found Complete Freedom From Kidney Troubles.

If you suffer from backache—From urinary disorders—From any disease of the kidneys, Be cured to stay cured.

Doan's Kidney Pills make lasting cures.

Maryville people testify.

Here's one case of it:

I. M. Woods, East Jenkins street, Maryville, Mo., says: "For some time kidney trouble had been lurking in my system, and although it did not bother me to any extent, I could see that the attacks were becoming more frequent and severe. Finally my kidneys became so badly disordered that I was obliged to seek relief. The kidney secretions were unnatural and so irregular in passage as to annoy me greatly. I also had a pain in my back and could hardly stoop. Dizzy spells and headaches were common, and I was in a miserable condition when I learned of Doan's Kidney Pills. I began their use, and after I had taken the contents of three boxes I was free from kidney trouble." (Statement given in 1901.)

Time is the Test.

On September 19, 1908, Mr. Wood added to the above: "The cure Doan's Kidney Pills effected in my case several years ago has been permanent. I am glad to again recommend this splendid remedy."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn & Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

DADDY'S CHRISTMAS.

Daddy's Christmas presents don't please him a bit!

Mother gave him collars—but they didn't fit;

Auntie bought him neckties—gayest in the town;

Thirty years or over Dad's been wearin' 'em brown.

Sister gave him razors, duller than a hoe;

Brother bought him shirt studs—cent apiece or so;

Uncle gave him nighties—woolen ones, I think.

Dad declares the itchin' drivin' him to drink.

Grandma gave him wristers. Dad wears cuffs, of course;

Grandpa gave him trochees—thought he might be hoarse.

Nephews sent him pictures of themselves—thirteen—

Dad says they're the limit! Ugliest mugs he's seen!

Nieces sent him tidies made of cotton thread;

Dad ain't just decided what had best be said.

Baby gave him something ma bought at the store—

Think it was an apple, wormy at the core.

Dad says I'm a jewel! Only son he's got!

Spared him all the nonsense of such tommyrot!

All I gave to Daddy was a gentle hint

That I'd like some popcorn, gum and peppermint.
